INSANITY WILL BE THE LINE OF DEFENSE IN KINNEY MURDER TRIAL

COUNSEL FOR DEFENDANT WILL HAVE TESTIMONY OF ALIENIST

Prosecution is Making Strong Fight for First Degree Verdict---Some Damaging Evidence -Extra Jurors Were Called

It was slow work getting a jury for the Kinney murder case at court yesterday afternoon. As stated the case was called at one o'clock, and before the required number was selected the regularly summoned panel was exhausted. Five extra talesmen were called in by the sheriff and from these the panel was filled at 12:44 o'clock. For these beds have been placed in the bar association room on the third floor of the court house and their meals will be served at the Lewis house where the jury will be taken in charge of officers.

The jurymen selected are: Thomas Blake, butcher, Washington; John G. Paxton, farmer, Canonsburg; L. R. Simth, laborer, Finleyville; M. S. Warn, agent, Monongahela; Bruce Blaney, farmer, Claysville R. D.; S. A. Bane, carpenter, Claysville; Joseph Day, farmer Dunn's Station, R. D.; Alexander McClintock, wagonmaker, Burgettstown., M. E. Ramsey blacksmith, Hanlin Station R. D.; J. Sloan Hamilton,, clerk, Washington; W. H. Procins, farmer, Union township; Joseph Bowman retired, Washington.

With the opening of the prosecution District Attorney Acheson said he proposed to prove premeditated murder; that Kinney had threatened Adams; how he had come prepared and armed to execute the threat, and how his subsequent statements corroborated his intentions

In testimony of the prosecution the only motive for the shooting developed in Burgess G. W. Risbeck's testimony. The latter testified that Kinney when he came to surrender himself made the following statement; "I am in trouble. I came to give myself up, I have shot Wm. Adams. He persecuted me, and forced me to resign from the Macbeth-Evans Glass factory. We met this morning and he renewed the trouble. He insulted me. I could not stand it any longer and pulled my gun and shot him."

Chief of Police C W. Albright also testified that Kinney made some remarks to him that intimated trouble and emnity.

Thomas Conner, with whom Kinney slept the night before the shooting, testified to feeling a revolver in Kinney's trousers pocket, when they were dressing in the morning.

Dr. J. B. Barth, who was first called to attend Adams, testified to the nature of the wounds, and Wm. Tyler a bartender at the Hotel Wellington testified to selling Kinney whiskey the morning of the shooting.

Mrs. James Shepler and her daughter Anna, near whose home the shooting occurred each testified to hearing the shots. They rushed to the window and saw Kinney throw the revolver over the fence of an adjoining yard, and they went and picked up the weapon, which they identified.

W. A. Miksch, superintendent of the Macbeth-Evans decorating department, testified that he was on his way to the factory and heard shots. He looked up the street and saw two men, one of whom he recognized as Adams who was also on his way to the factory. He waited until Adams approached and the latter replied to his question that Kinney was shooting at him, but seemed to take it lightly, and did not appear to realize that he was hurt badly until they reached the factory. It was then that Adams first believed that Kinney meant to kill him. Mr. Miksch also told how he took Adams home and other details.

Here the prosecution rested and the defense gave its line of action. The counsel, which is composed of Harry L. Williams and Robt. W. Irwin, stated that it proposes to prove insanity; that Mrs. Kinney will be called to prove that her husband had been acting queerly, and in an irrational manner, and that on her advice he had come to Charleroi to consult Dr. J. W. Hunter in regard to his condition; that the physician would testify to noticing changes in Kinney and that the testimony of Dr. Diller a Pittsburg alienist, who had visited and watched Kinney while in jail, would substantiate the evidence. This was as far as the trial had progressed at the time of going to press.

Beaver Valley, Monongahela And Monessen Will Be Here

All Are Hustling to Organize Hosts for Big Red Fire Demonstration When J. K. Tener Opens Campaign

S. C. Todd, chairman of the Charleroi Republican campaign executive committee this forenoon received a telephone message from Beaver stating that the Beaver valley would send a big delegation to the State campaign opening here Saturday evening, September 3, and asking that arrangements be made where the visitors would get something to eat. A representative will visit Charleroi shortly to make arrangements for entertaining the Beaver county delegations.

At Monongahela last night an enthusiastic meeting was held to organize the hosts from that town. An organization was effected by electing Assemblyman H. K. Bentley president Frank B. Wickerham secretary and, R. L Elwood treasurer. Committees were appointed on finance, parade, transportation and music. It is the intention to take three bands along, and to organize the six precincts of Monongahela, the two in Carrol township, and Forward township in Allegheny county across the river. Other meetings will be held later.

Monessen also took steps to be in line last night by organizing a committee with Col. Derrickson chairman and Editor H. R. Pore of the Independent secretary. A committtee composed of Burgess Reamer, A. N. Shuster and Wm. Herron was appointed to work up the project and report from time to time.

SON-IN-LAW OF COL. ROOSEVELT MAY BE AMONG SPEAKERS SEPT. 3

EFFORT TO ENLIST SERVICES OF CONGRESSMAN NICK LONGWORTH

Charleroi Committee Meets With Encouragement at Rousing Meeting at Bentleyville of Citizens and Party Leaders

Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, son-in-law of Col. Theodore Roosevelt is likely is to one of the orators at the mammoth rally that will mark the opening of the Congressman John K. Tener s Gubernatorial campaig at Charleroi Saturday evening, September 3 by the Republican State committee This was disclosed by R. H. Rush, a member of the Charleroi Republican campaign club executive committee, at an enthusiastic meeting at Bentleyville last night where the committee met in conference with citizen and campaign workers of that community in the interests of the big opening demonstration to be here. In addition to Congressman Longworth, who is one of the best National campaigners on the stump, Mr. Rush stated Governor Stuart, Senators Penrose and Oliver are expected to be among the speakers as well as all the State candidates.

The meeting at Bentleyville last night was one of the most enthusiastic yet held by the Charleroi committee in its organizing campaign to prepare for the opening rally here. It was composed of representative citizens business men physicians, farmers, coal miners, mine superintendents and officials. The hall of the new Farmers and Miners bank building had been engaged for the occasion and previous to the meeting the Ellsworth band paraded the streets and rendered good music in the hall. W. C. Headley, Republican precinct chairman of Bentleyville, called the meting to order and stated the subject, which was for the purpose of getting an organized delegation from that section for the parade at the Charleroi rally September 3. He introduced S. C. Todd, chairman of the Charleroi executive committee, who stated that the movement was undertaken, after Charleroi had been honored with the opening campaign, for the pupose of assisting the county and State chairman. He stated that Washington county has been honored by the highest office in the gift of the State and it was due the county to show the proper appreciation "We in Charleroi," he said, "feel specially honored that an esteemed fellow citizen has been selected as the standard bearer of his party and we have formed this committee to assist the disticts in making the opening rally a success."

Secretary Chas. O Frye of the committee, made some suggestions as to the selection of marshals to command the division, and W. W. Jimeson, chairman of transportation, told of the arrangements that would be made for transporting the visitors to and from Charleroi when some idea would be formed as to the probable number that would attend. Mr. Headley then called for expressions of opinions as to what might be expected and what could be done in the various precincts of the district.

John V. McAvoy, precinct chairman of Ellsworth, said that he had not yet had time to do much, but he was confident that a good delegation could be secured from his district. R. B. Whiting, precinct chairman from Marianna, was of the same opinion, and thought his contingent would be able to bring along a band. A number of Bentleyville citizens, expressed themselves enthusistically along the same lines, and were heart and soul in the project. Among these were W. F Richardson, J. E. Richardson, Dr. E. E. French, Dr. E. Tinsley, Dr. A. N. Booth, Wm. Greenlee and Messrs. Smith, Hetherington, Wilkinson, Watson, Hardman, Saunters, Snyder and others.

One of the most enthusiastic speeches was from W, Patterson of Ellsworth, who said he deemed it an honor to work for so broad minded able a man as Congressman J. K. Tener. Supt. Miller of the Ellsworth mines said that he believed his section would turn out big and Postmaster Harry Klingensmith of Ellsworth stated that his contingent would show up with a band that was able to give an account of itself.

John Peyden, precinct chairman of Somerset township, said that he would do all in his power to get a good delegation from his district. Thomas Tudor superintendent of the Acme mines of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company made an enthusiastic talk about giving loyal support to the party. Register Assessor Keller of Marianna stated that he would devote sometime to working up sentiment in his district.

R. H. Rush and Capt. J. K. Hein of Charleroi also made brief remarks. Mr. Rush here made his statement of the eminent speakers likely to be present and said that the Pittsburg Americus club and possibly the Tariff marching club would be present. After some discussion as to the probable attendance from the district, it was agreed that from 800 to 1,000 might be expected and W. W. Jamison assured them that ample transportation would be provided. Chairman Headley thanked all present for their attendance and interest especially the Ellsworth band and the meeting was adjourned.

Tonight the Charleroi executive committee goes to Lover, to explain the situation and interest the people of that section in turning out for the rally.

YOUNG MEN WANTED FOR BUSINESS POSITIONS

Never in the past ten years has the demand for young men been so great as at the present time. Every young man or boy who has finished our course in bookkeeping shorthand and typewriting is today in a good position, some of them starting with as much as $60.00 per month.

In this strenuous age the business man has no time to conduct a training school. He expects the young people the employes to be thoroughly prepared and able to do satisfactory work from the start.

To the young man or woman looking for a position in the business world where they will have a chance to advance, this school offers unsurpassed opportunities. The courses of study are thorough and complete and have stood the test of time.

Douglas graduates are known everywhere for their efficiency. Business men know this, and as a result, we receive more calls for our graduates every year than we are able to fill.

Young ladies well as young men are wanted. A knowledge of shorthand typewriting and bookkeeping will do more for a girl who wants to make real money than a college education.

We court the strictest investigation. We can prove every claim we make. Our graduates get the best positions and they are making good. You can do as well.

Government by Commission

With increasing demands for better sanitation and public service generally on municipal government it begins to be apparent that about the only possible means of permanent relief that can be attained is through government by commission. Instead of our present archaic methods of transacting the public business by councils, burgesses, mayors and the various subordinate boards a better method would be to select a commission of from three to five capable men according, to the size of the municipality pay them a decent salary for their work and turn over to them the business affairs of the town. Such a commission, if composed of the right people, would conduct the business on a better and more economic basis, as the public affairs would then be eliminated from politics, and everything would have to be done strictly according to its merits from a business standpoint.

This plan is not an experiment. The pioneers in its development are Galveston, Texas and DesMoines, Iowa. Already about seventy cities and towns in the United States have adopted the plan in some form or other, and several States have either changed the constitutions or are changing them to meet the requirements of the method.

Wherever the government by commission plan is in effect the public gets better service for an infinitely lower cost, taxes are reduced and life and existence are made more tolerable. It is simply plain business sense applied to the business of the people, and with graft waste, extravagance and incompetent management cut out, better public service and health cannot help but be the result.

Dried Potatoes

Consul Frank S. Hannah sends a report to the Department of Commerce and Labor relative to some recent experiments in the drying of potatoes under the auspices of the German Imperial Interior Department which may offer a new field for farmers. The potatoes are reduced by this process to about one quarter of their original weight and can be kept in a good condition in this compressed form for an indefinite length of time.

The military authorities have made thorough experiments with this product and have become convinced that its nutritious value is fully equal to that of corn and that the dried potatoes can take the place of one third of the former ration of oats. The fact that the potatoes are reduced to one-fourth of their original weight brings about a corresponding reduction in the price of freight, so that it will pay to grow more potatoes than has formerly been the case.

A SAD STORY.

The Misfortune That Came With a Terrible Tumble.

Fowling is now very little practiced in the Shetland islands, although many eggs are secured annually. Many thrilling stories of fowling adventure are told by the Shetlanders. A man who had undertaken to climb a certain steep cliff was neither very experienced nor very brave, although he boasted of being both. He pushed upward, however, briskly without looking behind until he had got up about 150 feet, when he stopped to breathe. The pause was fatal to his self possession, and he called out in tones of terror, "Men, men, I am going—I am going." But he still held on for a little, and it was not till he had shrieked many times "I am going" that he did fall headlong.

His comrades, having thus been warned, moved the boat out of the way so that the poor fellow came sheer down into the deep water. Mighty was the plunge, but at length he rose to the surface, when of course he was instantly caught hold of and dragged into the boat. After many gasps and much spluttering of sea water from his mouth his only remark was: "Eh, men, this is a sad story. I have lost my snuffbox."—"Sketches and Tales of Shetland."

The Last Ditch.

When William, prince of Orange, afterward William III. of England, was elected stadtholder of the United Netherlands in 1672 and found himself in the midst of war with England and France he was asked by the Duke of Buckingham whether he did not see ruin impending over his country.

"Nay," he answered. "There is one certain means by which I can be sure enough to see my country's ruin. I will die in the last ditch." And, rejecting all terms of peace, he checked the invasion of France by opening sluices and flooding every tract of land, drove them from Holland in 1674 and made honorable terms with England and finally after varying effort brought the war to a successful close by a treaty with France in 1678.

Taken at His Word.

The doctor was telling how he came to lose one of his best paying patients. The man was a hypochondriac, who was always imagining that something terrible was about to happen to him, and the doctor, who was a great jollier, was kept busy trying to reason him out of his morbid condition.

"You have worried yourself until you are bordering on a nervous collapse," said the doctor to him one day. "You shouldn't think about your symptoms all the time, but just attend to your affairs as if there was nothing the matter with you."

"All right, doctor," replied the patient. "I'll do as you say. You needn't come to see me any more."—New York Times.

And He Wasn't.

"Victoria," said her husband, "you will not mind it, I presume, if I should happen to be detained downtown late this evening?"

"I shall not mind it," austerely answered Mrs. Vick-Senn, "because you will not be detained downtown late this evening or any other evening."—Chicago Tribune.

MR. BARKER IS AGAINST BERRY

Well-Known Reformer Deals a Staggering Blow to "Mongrel" Party

A GROUP WITHOUT A PURPOSE

The Once Candidate For President Writes to the Voters of This State Telling What He Thinks of the Keystoners and Their Little Crowd.

"Be not righteous overmuch" is a sentiment inspired and written when the world was young and long before William Harrison Berry congregated within his own person all the virtues of the human family and formed a personal trust of the plans for doing all things right. Besides being the self-appointed candidate of that political fledging, the Keystone party, for Governor of Pennsylvania, Mr. Berry is just a trifle overheated in his righteousness personally and politically and his vaulting self-esteem is disgusting those who made a profession of political uplifting in this State long before the said Berry was catapulted into prominence by the political bosses for whom he is now crying out his contempt. One of the real, simon-pure uplifters who in all his long and active life has been out of joint with the regular order of things political in this and all other States aside from the state of discontent, is Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia. Mr. Barker is known of all men. He is admired by many but by all he is regarded as sincere and honest. He was once the candidate of the Populist party for the Presidency. In the long past and up to the present he has devoted his earnest and intelligent efforts and an abundance of his money in movements for civic and political reforms, yet Mr. Berry has made him weary of his well doing and with the force and vigor of a masterful leader of the people he has cried out a mighty protest against Berry and his band of false-pretenders. Here is what Wharton Barker only last week wrote to the voters of Pennsylvania in explaining why he could not follow the Berry aggregation in the pending campaign. Mr. Barker said:

"The Keystone party, created two weeks since in convention by less than two hundred 'eminent citizens,' outcast politicians and would-be candidates for Governor, all delegates either self-appointed or selected by the would-be bosses of this new party, is not worthy of consideration, much less of public support, because it calls simply for the putting out of office of 'bad men' and putting into office 'good men' and shrinks from presentation of all vital economic questions, thus making it a party without a purpose worthy of respect, surely a 'mongrel party.'"

Mr. Barker admits that he borrowed the word "mongrel" in describing the Berry party from Arthur G. Dewalt, the chairman of the Democratic committee of Pennsylvania. Of course Chairman Dewalt has applied other and uglier terms to the Berry crowd but as "mongrel" was likely the least offensive, Mr. Barker, who is mild of manner and speech, borrowed it for the occasion and those most familiar with the Berry party and its designs admit freely that he made a choice selection of a descriptive word. The facts are that Mr. Berry is "righteous overmuch" and that position in life is strictly forbidden. Even Mr. Barker, thoroughly human, but absolutely uncompromising in his honesty, regards it his plain duty to rebuke Berry and the party he has formed for purely selfish purposes. The fact, necessarily painful to Mr. Berry, is that he being opposed hardest by those whom he thought he could entrap easiest. In such counties as Clearfield, Washington, Westmoreland and one or two others, Mr. Berry is being used to disrupt or overpower existing political conditions in purely local affairs. Already in some of those counties deals are being made with a view of trading Berry off for votes for some candidates for minor places. In the other counties of the State Berry is not much of a factor. In the counties where he is being traded and swapped about for offices from road supervisor to Congressman he will make no particular showing in the general result. He is standing for no principle other than the principle of "holier than thou" and the voters generally are not disposed to accept that estimate of the gentleman who stood with Boss Guffey and the Democratic machine as long as the boss and the machine could serve him and who deserted to other bosses and machines when the Democracy refused to serve him longer. Mr. Berry is just now going about the State shouting out an explanation of his relations with Mr. Guffey. Berry contends that a proper understanding of his treatment of Guffey would reflect credit upon himself. In the meantime he admits that he secured money in vast amounts from Guffey when the Democratic leader was in affluence and that he had not repaid the loan when Guffey was forced into bankruptcy. Mr. Guffey seems not only to have lost his money but Berry's friendship as well. The appeal of the ingrate is not often respected.

However, Berry and his colleagues are in the field in protest against the action of the Democratic State convention at Allentown. They do not have a grievance against the Republican nominee for Governor or the Republican party as a whole and under those circumstances Berry is very much of a joke. He offers only himself to the voters and the vast majority would much prefer him personally to any of the fantastic isms which he is known to advocate. Under existing political conditions the people of Pennsylvania are happy and contented. They are prosperous and industrious. They are gathering daily and weekly a rich harvest from the protective policy of the Republicans and it would be unfair and unjust to deceive them into voting away what they are now enjoying in the fullest possible measure. Mr. Berry places a low estimate upon the intelligence of the voters of the State when he assumes that they will follow him or any other political fakir afield at a time when they are harvesting a liberal crop from the policy of Protection and Prosperity, the cardinal principles of the Republican party of this State and Nation. It is admitted on all hands that John K. Tener, the Republican candidate, will be elected Governor by a majority larger even than that given to Governor Edwin S. Stuart, but the Berry crew is thought to be endangering the success of regular Republican candidates for Congress in remote sections of the State. The Bryanized appeal to the "pee-pul" is beginning to disgust the voters, however, and the danger from the leather lunged windjabbers is fading away. A liberal week's pay for a faithful week's work is more attractive to the wage-earner than a glowing speech from the most eloquent sycophant in this or any other State.

FULL OF GRATITUDE.

But the Little One Had a Queer Way of Expressing It.

Mr. Brown's business kept him so occupied during the daytime that he had little opportunity to enjoy the society of his own children. When some national holiday gave him a day of leisure his young son was usually his chosen companion. One day, however, Mr. Brown, reproached by the wistful eyes of his seven-year-old daughter, reversed the order of things and invited the little girl to go with him for a long walk.

She was a shy, silent, small person, and during the two hours' stroll not a single word could Mr. Brown induce the little maid to speak, but her shining eyes attested that she appreciated his efforts to amuse her—indeed, she fairly glowed with suppressed happiness.

Just before they reached home, however, the child managed, but only after a tremendous struggle with her inherent timidity, to find words to express her gratitude.

"Papa, what flower do you like best?" she asked.

"Why, I don't know, my dear—sunflowers, I guess."

"Then," cried the little girl, beaming with gratitude, "that's what I'll plant on your grave!"—Exchange.

Tennyson's Tactlessness.

Several stories are told of Tennyson's thoughtless speeches. "What fish is this?" he once asked his hostess where he was dining. "Whiting," she replied. "The meanest fish there is," he remarked, quite unconscious that he could have wounded any one's feelings.

Yet his kindness of heart was such that when his partridge was afterward given him almost raw he ate steadily through it for fear his hostess might be vexed.

On one occasion Tennyson was very rude to Mrs. Brotherton, a neighbor at Freshwater. The next day he came to her house with a great cabbage under each arm.

"I heard you like these, so I brought them," he said genialy. It was his idea of a peace offering.

Women's Time Schedules.

Few women speak of a train starting slightly off the even hour, as the 3:02 train, for example, or the 3:12. "Three" will do. It bothers a man a heap to go hunting for a 3 o'clock train by feminine directions when it is a 3:12 train. For some women "3" will do for the 2:54 train; it's near enough. Then the man following feminine directions, unless he is on his guard against these pitfalls, is lost. Probably if it weren't for his business training, which teaches a man that 3:02 is not 3, not 3:01, not 3:01½ not 3:01¾, but 3:02, he'd be better natured about women's time schedules.—Boston Post.

The Soft Answer.

Two men were occupying a double seat in a crowded car. One of them was a long distance whistler and the other was evidently annoyed. "You don't seem to like my whistling?" said the noisy one after a five minute continuous performance. "No, I don't," was the frank reply. "Well," continued the other, "maybe you think you are man enough to stop it?" "No, I don't think I am," rejoined the other, "but I hope you are." And the whistling was discontinued.—Argonaut.

Warmth Not Wanted.

"This would be a pleasanter world if people put more warmth—genuine warmth—in their letters," said the man of sentiment.

"I don't agree with you," replied his worried friend, "there was a warmth about some of the business letters I got this morning that I didn't at all like."

The Service of Unlimited Capacity

Half a loaf may be better than no bread — but why only half a loaf when a whole loaf is available?

In other words, why be satisfied with only part telephone service, when the Bell System gives you unlimited service?

The Bell is the one service of unlimited capacity. It reaches everywhere—enables you to telephone where you will and when you will. Whether you wish to telephone to or from the busy city or country hamlet the Bell affords a service that is absolutely unequaled.

In all the large centers Bell service is supreme—because it is the choice of the majority—because it is the service of unlimited capacity.

"One evening Hugo's admirers assembled in his drawing room, were competing with one another in the eulogy of his genius, and the idea was thrown out, that the street in which he lived ought to bear his name. Some one suggested that the street was too small to be worthy of so great a poet, and the honor of bearing his name ought to be assigned to some more important thoroughfare. Then they proceeded to enumerate the most popular quarters of Paris, in an ascending scale, until one man exclaimed with enthusiasm that it would be an honor for the city of Paris itself to be renamed after the man of genius. Hugo, leaning against the mantelpiece, listened complacently to these flatterers outbidding each other. Then, with an air of one engaged in deep thought, he turned to a young man and said to him in his grand style, 'Even that will come, my friends—even that will come.'"—Bookman.

THE OVARINAS.

Picturesque Barefooted Fish Hawkers of Portugal.

The ovarinas are perhaps the most interesting people in Portugal. They are probably the lineal descendants of the original inhabitants of the land, and now come from a small place called Murtosa (Estarreja), not far from Oporto. As the termination indicates, the ovarinas are the women of these people.

Both old and young, for even young children are thus employed, are exceedingly active and energetic. They go about barefoot, wearing a peculiar costume, and carrying huge baskets of peculiar shape on their heads. They travel many miles a day and penetrate into every corner of the city, crying their wares in a loud, unmusical shout. They mount even to the sixth floors and bargain with buyers. They go barefoot not because of their poverty, many of them possessing expensive gold ornaments, but because they can thus more easily cover the many miles they run during the day. Attempts have been made to do away with this method of selling fish, but they have all failed. The customers like to deal with these fish girls and can purchase from them very small amounts.

Fish is not purchased by weight, but by the fish or part of fish. The price averages 12 to 15 cents per pound. There are not less than 2,000 ovarinas engaged in selling fish in Lisbon.—Consular Report.

When He Didn't Stutter.

A confirmed stutterer went into a restaurant and met a few casual acquaintances, who at once commenced chaffing him most unmercifully respecting the impediment in his speech. At last one of them, a pert little fellow who had been making himself rather conspicuous by his remarks, said, "Well, old man, I'll bet suppers round you can't order them without stammering." "D-d-d-done," says Brown, and, to the astonishment of the company and the discomfort of his challenger (all of whom were unaware of his being, as is often the case with stutterers, a first class singer), he beckoned the waiter and sang the order without the slightest hitch, then, turning round to his tormentor, said, "N-n-n-now, y-y-y-you c-c-c-can p-p-p-pay."—Argonaut.

The Start of an Author.

Soon after "Treasure Island" had appeared and attracted public attention to Robert Louis Stevenson, two gentlemen were traveling up to London from Norfolk. One of them was reading "Treasure Island." Presently, having finished the book, he dropped it into his traveling bag, remarking: "Well, I think I could myself write a better child's story than that." The other, who, by the way, was his brother, urged him to try. Six weeks afterward the former handed to the latter a complete tale in manuscript. It was "King Solomon's Mines," the first novel that made a reputation for Mr. Rider Haggard.

She Was Different.

"John," asked his wife, who was writing to one of her former schoolmates, "which is proper—to say, 'I differ from you' or 'I differ with you?'"

"Tell her you differ from her. I understand that she lets her husband keep part of his salary to have fun with himself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Failure.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Wellington's Cool Interview With a Murderous Maniac.

One day as the Duke of Wellington sat writing at his library table quite alone his door was suddenly opened without a knock or announcement of any sort, and in stalked a gaunt man, who stood before the commander in chief with his hat on and a savage expression of countenance.

The duke was of course a little annoyed at such an unceremonious interruption, and, looking up, he asked, "Who are you?" "I am Dionysius," was the singular answer. "Well, what do you want?" "Your life." "My life?" "Yes; I am sent to kill you." "Very odd," said the duke, sitting back and calmly gazing at the intruder. "Not at all, for I am Dionysius," said the stranger, "and I must put you to death." "Are you obliged to perform this duty today?" asked the commander in chief. "I am very busy just now and have a large number of letters to write. It would be very inconvenient today." The visitor looked hard during a moment's pause. "Call again," continued the duke, "or write and make an appointment." "You'll be ready?" "Without fail," was the reply.

The maniac, awed doubtless by the stern old soldier, backed out of the room without further words and half an hour later was safe in bedlam.—London Graphic.

The Phrenological Test.

A distinguished phrenologist while dining at a hotel stated at the table that he had formed an opinion of the character of each one present. An Irishman said that he would propound a question and that if it was truthfully answered he would forever believe in phrenology. The phrenologist said he was satisfied and told him to proceed. "Thin," said the Irishman, "will yez be afther tellin' me am I married or single?"—London Telegraph.

Sweet.

"I think your wife has such a sweet voice."

"So do I. She gets $1,200 a year for spilling part of it in a church choir."—Boston Transcript.

A Possible Exception.

Wife—Isn't it a fact, dear, that handsome men are proverbially disagreeable? Husband—Well, I don't know. I always try to be pleasant.

Her Bait.

"You have to have different bait for different fish, don't you, ma?"

"I guess so. I know I caught a lobster with mistletoe."—New York Press.

Laid In a Stock.

When the late Pierre Lorillard was a boy, his mother, being annoyed by moths that destroyed the woolen clothing and other material of the household, agreed to pay him a cent apiece for every moth he would kill in the house and bring to her. The same bargain was made with his brothers, Jake, George and Louis. In course of time Mrs. Lorillard noticed that, while the other children collected from her at intervals from 10 to 25 cents, Pierre drew on her frequently for a $1 at a time, indorsing his drafts with 100 dead moths. Investigation revealed the bent of the future financier as well as his early adaptability to methods governing the acquirement of wealth. Having procured from a furrier some pieces of fur thrown away because they were infested with moths, Pierre secreted them in an old chest in an unused closet. There the quickly accumulating moths were banked, to be drawn upon whenever the inventor and perfecter of the enterprise required pocket money.

Knighted Actors.

It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Bancroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell, and Sir John Hare, Fairs. As for Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "'Tree' is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max!"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.

In the latter days of the English prize ring innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Heenan in 1860 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pickpockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

A Woman's Wit.

The husband of Lydia Childs was an invalid for many years. He was not well off in this world's goods, and much of the support of the family was earned by the wife. Thinking of this and of his wife's many sacrifices for his comfort, Mr. Childs once said to her regretfully, "My dear, I wish I were Croesus."

Whereupon Mrs. Childs, with ready wit and gracious tact, responded, "You are Croesus, for you are king of Lydia."—Los Angeles Times.

INSANITY WILL BE THE LINE OF DEFENSE IN KINNEY MURDER TRIAL

COUNSEL FOR DEFENDANT WILL HAVE TESTIMONY OF ALIENIST

Prosecution is Making Strong Fight for First Degree Verdict---Some Damaging Evidence -Extra Jurors Were Called

It was slow work getting a jury for the Kinney murder case at court yesterday afternoon. As stated the case was called at one o'clock, and before the required number was selected the regularly summoned panel was exhausted. Five extra talesmen were called in by the sheriff and from these the panel was filled at 12:44 o'clock. For these beds have been placed in the bar association room on the third floor of the court house and their meals will be served at the Lewis house where the jury will be taken in charge of officers.

The jurymen selected are: Thomas Blake, butcher, Washington; John G. Paxton, farmer, Canonsburg; L. R. Smith, laborer, Finleyville; M. S. Warn, agent, Monongahela; Bruce Blaney, farmer, Claysville R. D.; S. A. Bane, carpenter, Claysville; Joseph Day, farmer Dunn's Station, R. D.; Alexander McClintock, wagonmaker, Burgettstown., M. E. Ramsey blacksmith, Hanlin Station R. D.; J. Sloan Hamilton,. clerk, Washington; W. H. Procins, farmer, Union township; Joseph Bowman retired, Washington.

With the opening of the prosecution District Attorney Acheson said he proposed to prove premeditated murder; that Kinney had threatened Adams; how he had come prepared and armed to execute the threat, and how his subsequent statements corroborated his intentions.

In testimony of the prosecution the only motive for the shooting developed in Burgess G. W. Risbeck's testimony. The latter testified that Kinney when he came to surrender himself made the following statement: "I am in trouble. I came to give myself up, I have shot Wm. Adams. He persecuted me, and forced me to resign from the Macbeth-Evans Glass factory. We met this morning and he renewed the trouble. He insulted me. I could not stand it any longer and pulled my gun and shot him."

Chief of Police C W. Albright also testified that Kinney made some remarks to him that intimated trouble and enmity.

Thomas Conner, with whom Kinney slept the night before the shooting, testified to feeling a revolver in Kinney's trousers pocket, when they were dressing in the morning.

Dr. J. B. Barth, who was first called to attend Adams, testified to the nature of the wounds, and Wm. Tyler a bartender at the Hotel Wellington testified to selling Kinney whiskey the morning of the shooting.

Mrs. James Shepler and her daughter Anna, near whose home the shooting occurred each testified to hearing the shots. They rushed to the window and saw Kinney throw the revolver over the fence of an adjoining yard, and they went and picked up the weapon, which they identified.

W. A. Miksch, superintendent of the Macbeth-Evans decorating department, testified that he was on his way to the factory and heard shots. He looked up the street and saw two men, one of whom he recognized as Adams who was also on his way to the factory. He waited until Adams approached and the latter replied to his question that Kinney was shooting at him, but seemed to take it lightly, and did not appear to realize that he was hurt badly until they reached the factory. It was then that Adams first believed that Kinney meant to kill him. Mr. Miksch also told how he took Adams home and other details.

Here the prosecution rested and the defense gave its line of action. The counsel, which is composed of Harry L. Williams and Robt. W. Irwin, stated that it proposes to prove insanity; that Mrs. Kinney will be called to prove that her husband had been acting queerly, and in an irrational manner, and that on her advice he had come to Charleroi to consult Dr. J. W. Hunter in regard to his condition; that the physician would testify to noticing changes in Kinney and that the testimony of Dr. Diller a Pittsburg alienist, who had visited and watched Kinney while in jail, would substantiate the evidence. This was as far as the trial had progressed at the time of going to press.

Beaver Valley, Monongahela And Monessen Will Be Here

All Are Hustling to Organize Hosts for Big Red Fire Demonstration When J. K. Tener Opens Campaign

S. C. Todd, chairman of the Charleroi Republican campaign executive committee this forenoon received a telephone message from Beaver stating that the Beaver valley would send a big delegation to the State campaign opening here Saturday evening, September 3, and asking that arrangements be made where the visitors would get something to eat. A representative will visit Charleroi shortly to make arrangements for entertaining the Beaver county delegations.

At Monongahela last night an enthusiastic meeting was held to organize the hosts from that town. An organization was effected by electing Assemblyman H. K. Bentley president Frank R. Wickerham secretary and, R. L. Elwood treasurer. Committees were appointed on finance, parade, transportation and music. It is the intention to take three bands along, and to organize the six precincts of Monongahela, the two in Carrol township, and Forward township in Allegheny county across the river. Other meetings will be held later.

Monessen also took steps to be in line last night by organizing a committee with Col. Derrickson chairman and Editor H. R. Pore of the Independent secretary. A committee composed of Burgess Reamer, A. N. Shuster and Wm. Herron was appointed to work up the project and report from time to time.

BOYS HAVING LOTS OF FUN

In order to give zest and interest to the popularity voting contest that started Saturday, the Charleroi Volunteer Firemen will give a special prize to the young lady polling the most votes at the close of the voting on Saturday, August 27. This will in no way affect the standing of a candidate in the final result and each will be accorded the full number of votes polled from the beginning. In addition to the voting for the ladies the boys of the various departments are having some fun over the complimentary vote that may be cast with each ballot for the most popular fireman. Frank Kurpnweit says he is sure to mail all the honor. Clifford Marchand is expected to give them all a shock. Bob Vetter says he has the weight, while Dr. J. W. Manon is confident that he will win because he has such a good pull. Chief J. M. Fleming admits he is a little short, while C. E. Velettay claims to outshine them all. YOUNG MEN WANTED FOR BUSINESS POSITIONS

Never in the past ten years has the demand for young man been so great as at the present time. Every young man or boy who has finished our course in bookkeeping shorthand and typewriting is today in a good position, some of them starting with as much as $60.00 per month.

In this strenuous age the business man has no time to conduct a training school. He expects the young people the employes to be thoroughly prepared and able to do satisfactory work from the start.

To the young man or woman looking for a position in the business world where they will have a chance to advance, this school offers unsurpassed opportunities. The courses of study are thorough and complete and have stood the test of time.

Douglas graduates are known everywhere for their efficiency. Business men know this, and as a result, we receive more calls for our graduates every year than we are able to fill.

Young ladies well as young men are wanted. A knowledge of shorthand typewriting and bookkeeping will do more for a girl who wants to make real money than a college education.

We court the strictest investigation. We can prove every claim we make. Our graduates get the best positions and they are making good. You can do as well.

Special rates to those who enroll during August.

Douglas Business College.

The following letter was received this morning since this advertisement was written. We have no one to send to the position. I will gladly give the name and address of the firm to any young man who is qualified to fil the place.

Mr. M. Adams,
Douglas Business College,
Charleroi, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I have an opening for a young man stenographer. Will only consider a bright young fellow who is determined to succeed by applying himself to the work.

My work is varied, my correspondence is not large and will be easy even for a beginner. Will have some account work and reports to make out which require accuracy. If you have a man you can recommend send him up. If not perhaps one of the other Douglas schools can reccommend one.

Yours respectfully,
E. R. Miller,
General Manager.

SON-IN-LAW OF COL. ROOSEVELT MAY BE AMONG SPEAKERS SEPT. 3

EFFORT TO ENLIST SERVICES OF CONGRESSMAN NICK LONGWORTH

Charleroi Committee Meets With Encouragement at Rousing Meeting at Bentleyville of Citizens and Party Leaders

Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, son-in-law of Col. Theodore Roosevelt is likely is to one of the orators at the mammoth rally that will mark the opening of the Congressman John K. Tener's Gubernatorial campaig at Charleroi Saturday evening, September 3 by the Republican State committee This was disclosed by R. H. Rush, a member of the Charleroi Republican campaign club executive committee, at an enthusiastic meeting at Bentleyville last night where the committee met in conference with citizen and campaign workers of that community in the interests of the big opening demonstration to be here. In addition to Congressman Longworth, who is one of the best National campaigners on the stump, Mr. Rush stated Governor Stuart, Senators Penrose and Oliver are expected to be among the speakers as well as all the State candidates.

The meeting at Bentleyville last night was one of the most enthusiastic yet held by the Charleroi committee in its organizing campaign to prepare for the opening rally here. It was composed of representative citizens business men physicians, farmers, coal miners, mine superintendents and officials. The hall of the new Farmers and Miners bank building had been engaged for the occasion and previous to the meeting the Ellsworth band paraded the streets and rendered good music in the hall. W. C. Headley, Republican precinct chairman of Bentleyville, called the meting to order and stated the subject, which was for the purpose of getting an organized delegation from that section for the parade at the Charleroi rally September 3. He introduced S. C. Todd, chairman of the Charleroi executive committee, who stated that the movement was undertaken, after Charleroi had been honored with the opening campaign, for the pupose of assisting the county and State chairman. He stated that Washington county has been honored by the highest office in the gift of the State and it was due the county to show the proper appreciation "We in Charleroi," he said, "feel specially honored that an esteemed fellow citizen has been selected as the standard bearer of his party and we have formed this committee to assist the districts in making the opening rally a success."

Secretary Chas. O Frye of the committee, made some suggestions as to the selection of marshals to command the division, and W. W. Jimeson, chairman of transportation, told of the arrangements that would be made for transporting the visitors to and from Charleroi when some idea would be formed as to the probable number that would attend. Mr. Headley then called for expressions of opinions as to what might be expected and what could be done in the various precincts of the district.

John V. McAvoy, precinct chairman of Ellsworth, said that he had not yet had time to do much, but he was confident that a good delegation could be secured from his district. R. B. Whiting, precinct chairman from Marianna, was of the same opinion, and thought his contingent would be able to bring along a band. A number of Bentleyville citizens, expressed themselves enthusistically along the same lines, and were heart and soul in the project. Among these were W. F. Richardson, J. E. Richardson, Dr. S. E. French, D. E. Lindley, Dr. A. N. Booth, Wm. Greenlee and Messrs. Smith, Hetherington, Wilkinson, Watson, Hardman, Saunters, Snyder and others.

One of the most enthusiastic speeches was from W. Patterson of Ellsworth, who said he deemed it an honor to work for so broad minded able a man as Congressman J. K. Tener. Supt. Miller of the Ellsworth mines said that he believed his section would turn out big and Postmaster Harry Klingensmith of Ellsworth stated that his contingent would show up with a band that was able to give an account of itself.

John Feyden, precinct chairman of Somerset township, said that he would do all in his power to get a good delegation from his district. Thomas Tudor superintendent of the Acme mines of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company made an enthusiastic talk about giving loyal support to the party. Register Assessor Keller of Marianna stated that he would devote sometime to working up sentiment in his district.

R. H. Rush and Capt. J. K. Hein of Charleroi also made brief remarks. Mr. Rush here made his statement of the eminent speakers likely to be present and said that the Pittsburg Americus club and possibly the Tariff marching clubs would be present. After some discussion as to the probable attendance from the district, it was agreed that from 800 to 1,000 might be expected and W. W. Jamison assured them that ample transportation would be provided. Chairman Headley thanked all present for their attendance and interest especially the Ellsworth band and the meeting was adjourned.

Tonight the Charleroi executive committee goes to Lover, to explain the situation and interest the people of that section in turning out for the rally.

Government by Commission

With increasing demands for better sanitation and public service generally in municipal government it begins to be apparent that about the only possible means of permanent relief that can be attained is through government by commission. Instead of our present archaic methods of transacting the public business by councils, burgesses, mayors and the various subordinate boards a better method would be to select a commission of from three to five capable men according, to the size of the municipality pay them a decent salary for their work and turn over to them the business affairs of the town. Such a commission, if composed of the right people, would conduct the business on a better and more economic basis, as the public affairs would then be eliminated from politics, and everything would have to be done strictly according to its merits from a business standpoint.

This plan is not an experiment. The pioneers in its development are Galveston, Texas and DesMoines, Iowa. Already about seventy cities and towns in the United States have adopted the plan in some form or other, and several States have either changed the constitutions or are changing them to meet the requirements of the method.

Wherever the government by commission plan is in effect the public gets better service for an infinitely lower cost, taxes are reduced and life and existence are made more tolerable. It is simply plain business sense applied to the business of the people, and with graft waste, extravagance and incompetent management cut out, better public service and health cannot help but be the result.

Dried Potatoes

Consul Frank S. Hannah sends a report to the Department of Commerce and Labor relative to some recent experiments in the drying of potatoes under the auspices of the German Imperial Interior Department which may offer a new field for farmers. The potatoes are reduced by this process to about one quarter of their original weight and can be kept in a good condition in this compressed form for an indefinite length of time.

The military authorities have made thorough experiments with this product and have become convinced that its nutritious value is fully equal to that of corn and that the dried potatoes can take the place of one-third of the former ration of oats. The fact that the potatoes are reduced to one-fourth of their original weight brings about a corresponding reduction in the price of freight, so that it will pay to grow more potatoes than has formerly been the case.

A SAD STORY.

The Misfortune That Came With a Terrible Tumble.

Fowling is now very little practiced in the Shetland Islands, although many eggs are secured annually. Many thrilling stories of fowling adventure are told by the Shetlanders. A man who had undertaken to climb a certain steep cliff was neither very experienced nor very brave, although he boasted of being both. He pushed upward, however, briskly without looking behind until he had got up about 150 feet, when he stopped to breathe. The pause was fatal to his self possession, and he called out in tones of terror, "Men, men, I am going—I am going." But he still held on for a little, and it was not till he had shrieked many times "I am going" that he did fall headlong.

His comrades, having thus been warned, moved the boat out of the way so that the poor fellow came sheer down into the deep water. Mighty was the plunge, but at length he rose to the surface, when of course he was instantly caught hold of and dragged into the boat. After many gasps and much spluttering of sea water from his mouth his only remark was: "Eh, men, this is a sad story. I have lost my snuffbox."—"Sketches and Tales of Shetland."

The Last Ditch.

When William, prince of Orange, afterward William III. of England, was elected stadtholder of the United Netherlands in 1672 and found himself in the midst of war with England and France he was asked by the Duke of Buckingham whether he did not see ruin impending over his country.

"Nay," he answered. "There is one certain means by which I can be sure enough to see my country's ruin. I will die in the last ditch." And, rejecting all terms of peace, he checked the invasion of France by opening sluices and flooding every tract of land, drove them from Holland in 1674 and made honorable terms with England and finally after varying effort brought the war to a successful close by a treaty with France in 1678.

Taken at His Word.

The doctor was telling how he came to lose one of his best paying patients. The man was a hypochondriac, who was always imagining that something terrible was about to happen to him, and the doctor, who was a great jollier, was kept busy trying to reason him out of his morbid condition.

"You have worried yourself until you are bordering on a nervous collapse," said the doctor to him one day. "You shouldn't think about your symptoms all the time, but just attend to your affairs as if there was nothing the matter with you."

"All right, doctor," replied the patient. "I'll do as you say. You needn't come to see me any more."—New York Times.

And He Wasn't.

"Victoria," said her husband, "you will not mind it, I presume, if I should happen to be detained downtown late this evening?"

"I shall not mind it," austerely answered Mrs. Vick-Senn, "because you will not be detained downtown late this evening or any other evening."—Chicago Tribune.

MR. BARKER IS AGAINST BERRY

Well-Known Reformer Deals a Staggering Blow to "Mongrel" Party

A GROUP WITHOUT A PURPOSE

The Once Candidate For President Writes to the Voters of This State Telling What He Thinks of the Keystoners and Their Little Crowd.

"Be not righteous overmuch" is a sentiment inspired and written when the world was young and long before William Harrison Berry congregated within his own person all the virtues of the human family and formed a personal trust of the plans for doing all things right. Besides being the self-appointed candidate of that political fledging, the Keystone party, for Governor of Pennsylvania Mr. Berry is just a trifle overheated in his righteousness personally and politically and his vaulting self-esteem is disgusting those who made a profession of political up-lifting in this State long before the said Berry was catapulted into prominence by the political bosses for whom he is now crying out his contempt. One of the real, simon-pure uplifters who in all his long and active life has been out of joint with the regular order of things political in this and all other States aside from the state of discontent, is Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia. Mr. Barker is known of all men. He is admired by many but by all he is regarded as sincere and honest. He was once the candidate of the Populist party for the Presidency. In the long past and up to the present he has devoted his earnest and intelligent efforts and an abundance of his money in movements for civic and political reforms, yet Mr. Berry has made him weary of his well doing and with the force and rigor of a masterful leader of the people he has cried out a mighty protest against Berry and his band of false-pretenders. Here is what Wharton Barker only last week wrote to the voters of Pennsylvania in explaining why he could not follow the Berry aggregation in the pending campaign. Mr. Barker said:

"The Keystone party, created two weeks since in convention by less than two hundred 'eminent citizens,' outcast politicians and would-be candidates for Governor, all delegates either self-appointed or selected by the would-be bosses of this new party, is not worthy of consideration, much less of public support, because it calls simply for the putting out of office of 'bad men' and putting into office 'good men' and shrinks from presentation of all vital economic questions, thus making it a party without a purpose worthy of respect, surely a 'mongrel party.'"

Mr. Barker admits that he borrowed the word "mongrel" in describing the Berry party from Arthur G. Dewalt, the chairman of the Democratic committee of Pennsylvania. Of course Chairman Dewalt has applied other and uglier terms to the Berry crowd but as "mongrel" was likely the least offensive, Mr. Barker, who is mild of manner and speech, borrowed it for the occasion and those most familiar with the Berry party and its designs admit freely that he made a choice selection of a descriptive word. The facts are that Mr. Berry is "righteous overmuch" and that position in life is strictly forbidden. Even Mr. Barker, thoroughly human, but absolutely uncompromising in his honesty, regards it his plain duty to rebuke Berry and the party he has formed for purely selfish purposes. The fact, necessarily painful to Mr. Berry, is that he being opposed hardest by those whom he thought he could entrap easiest. In such counties as Clearfield, Washington, Westmoreland and one or two others, Mr. Berry is being used to disrupt or overpower existing political conditions in purely local affairs. Already in some of those counties deals are being made with a view of trading Berry off for votes for some candidates for minor places. In the other counties of the State Berry is not much of a factor. In the counties where he is being traded and swapped about for offices from road supervisor to Congressman he will make no particular showing in the general result. He is standing for no principle other than the principle of "holier than thou" and the voters generally are not disposed to accept that estimate of the gentleman who stood with Boss Guffey and the Democratic machine as long as the boss and the machine could serve him and who deserted to other bosses and machines when the Democracy refused to serve him longer. Mr. Berry is just now going about the State shouting out an explanation of his relations with Mr. Guffey. Berry contends that a proper understanding of his treatment of Guffey would reflect credit upon himself. In the meantime he admits that he secured money in vast amounts from Guffey when the Democratic leader was in affluence and that he had now repaid the loan when Guffey was forced into bankruptcy. Mr. Guffey seems not only to have lost his money but Berry's friendship as well. The appeal of the ingrate is not often respected.

However, Berry and his colleagues are in the field in protest against the action of the Democratic State convention at Allentown. They do not have a grievance against the Republican nominee for Governor or the Republican party as a whole and under those circumstances Berry is very much of a joke. He offers only himself to the voters and the vast majority would much prefer him personally to any of the fantastic isms which he is known to advocate. Under existing political conditions the people of Pennsylvania are happy and contented. They are prosperous and industrious. They are gathering daily and weekly a rich harvest from the protective policy of the Republicans and it would be unfair and unjust to deceive them into voting away what they are now enjoying in the fullest possible measure. Mr. Berry places a low estimate upon the intelligence of the voters of the State when he assumes that they will follow him or any other political fakir afield at a time when they are harvesting a liberal crop from the policy of Protection and Prosperity, the cardinal principles of the Republican party of this State and Nation. It is admitted on all hands that John K. [illegible] will be elected Governor by a majority larger even than that given to Governor Edwin S. Stuart, but the Berry crew is thought to be endangering the success of regular Republican candidates for Congress in remote sections of the State. The Bryanized appeal to the "pee-pul" is beginning to disgust the voters, however, and the danger from the leather lunged windjabbers is fading away. A liberal week's pay for a faithful week's work is more attractive to the wage-earner than a glowing speech from the most eloquent sycophant in this or any other State.

FULL OF GRATITUDE.

But the Little One Had a Queer Way of Expressing It.

Mr. Brown's business kept him so occupied during the daytime that he had little opportunity to enjoy the society of his own children. When some national holiday gave him a day of leisure his young son was usually his chosen companion. One day, however, Mr. Brown, reproached by the wistful eyes of his seven-year-old daughter, reversed the order of things and invited the little girl to go with him for a long walk.

She was a shy, silent, small person, and during the two hours' stroll not a single word could Mr. Brown induce the little maid to speak, but her shining eyes attested that she appreciated his efforts to amuse her—indeed, she fairly glowed with suppressed happiness.

Just before they reached home, however, the child managed, but only after a tremendous struggle with her inherent timidity, to find words to express her gratitude.

"Papa, what flower do you like best?" she asked.

"Why, I don't know, my dear—sunflowers, I guess."

"Then," cried the little girl, beaming with gratitude, "that's what I'll plant on your grave."—Exchange.

Tennyson's Tactlessness.

Several stories are told of Tennyson's thoughtless speeches. "What fish is this?" he once asked his hostess where he was dining. "Whiting," she replied. "The meanest fish there is," he remarked, quite unconscious that he could have wounded any one's feelings.

Yet his kindness of heart was such that when his partridge was afterward given him almost raw he ate steadily through it for fear his hostess might be vexed.

On one occasion Tennyson was very rude to Mrs. Brotherton, a neighbor at Freshwater. The next day he came to her house with a great cabbage under each arm.

"I heard you like these, so I brought them," he said genialy. It was his idea of a peace offering.

Women's Time Schedules.

Few women speak of a train starting slightly off the even hour, as the 3:02 train, for example, or the 3:12. "Three" will do. It bothers a man a heap to go hunting for a 3 o'clock train by feminine directions when it is a 3:12 train. For some women "3" will do for the 2:54 train; it's near enough. Then the man following feminine directions, unless he is on his guard against these pitfalls, is lost. Probably if it weren't for his business training, which teaches a man that 3:02 is not 3, not 3:01, not 3:01½, not 3:01¾, but 3:02, he'd be better natured about women's time schedules.—Boston Post.

The Soft Answer.

Two men were occupying a double seat in a crowded car. One of them was a long distance whistler and the other was evidently annoyed. "You don't seem to like my whistling?" said the noisy one after a five minute continuous performance. "No, I don't," was the frank reply. "Well," continued the other, "maybe you think you are man enough to stop it?" "No, I don't think I am," rejoined the other, "but I hope you are." And the whistling was discontinued.—Argonaut.

Warmth Not Wanted.

"This would be a pleasanter world if people put more warmth—genuine warmth—in their letters," said the man of sentiment.

"I don't agree with you," replied his worried friend, "there was a warmth about some of the business letters I got this morning that I didn't at all like."

The Service of Unlimited Capacity

Half a loaf may be better than no bread — but why only half a loaf when a whole loaf is available?

In other words, why be satisfied with only part telephone service, when the Bell System gives you unlimited service?

The Bell is the one service of unlimited capacity. It reaches everywhere—enables you to telephone where you will and when you will. Whether you wish to telephone to or from the busy city or country hamlet the Bell affords a service that is absolutely unequaled.

In all the large centers Bell service is supreme—because it is the choice of the majority—because it is the service of unlimited capacity.

For rates and other information regarding service, call the District Manager.

Laid In a Stock.

When the late Pierre Lorillard was a boy, his mother, being annoyed by moths that destroyed the woolen clothing and other material of the household, agreed to pay him a cent apiece for every moth he would kill in the house and bring to her. The same bargain was made with his brothers, Jake, George and Louis. In course of time Mrs. Lorillard noticed that, while the other children collected from her at intervals from 10 to 25 cents, Pierre drew on her frequently for a $1 at a time, indorsing his drafts with 100 dead moths. Investigation revealed the bent of the future financier as well as his early adaprability to methods governing the acquirement of wealth. Having procured from a furrier some pieces of fur thrown away because they were infested with moths, Pierre secreted them in an old chest in an unused closet. There the quickly accumulating moths were banked, to be drawn upon whenever the inventor and perfecter of the enterprise required pocket money.

Knighted Actors.

It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Bancroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell and Sir John Hare, Fairs. As for Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "'Tree' is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max!"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.

In the latter days of the English prize ring innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Heenan in 1860 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pickpockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

A Woman's Wit.

The husband of Lydia Childs was an invalid for many years. He was not well off in this world's goods, and much of the support of the family was earned by the wife. Thinking of this and of his wife's many sacrifices for his comfort, Mr. Childs once said to her regretfully, "My dear, I wish I were Croesus."

Whereupon Mrs. Childs, with ready wit and gracious tact, responded, "You are Croesus, for you are king of Lydia."—Los Angeles Times.
